1.0 STATEMENT

Arafura's vision and values are the guiding principles that define culture and the type of company it seeks to be. Arafura's directors, senior executives and employees will work to instil these values across the organisation. The values create a link between the company's vision and purpose and its strategic goals by expressing the standards and behaviours it expects from its directors, senior executives and employees to fulfil its purpose and meet its goals.

Shareholders and other external stakeholders expect Arafura to act lawfully, ethically and responsibly and this is reflected in the values. The directors have approved the statement of values and mandated the senior executives and employees to instil these across the company, reinforce this in interactions within the wider community and assist in making business decisions.
